Tax Rate Increased $2

Getting Prepared

West school Principal Eugene Frulla, with Elizabeth Cahoon, fifth grade teacher and Norma Macomber, sixth grade teacher, check over materials anticipating the opening day of school next week, when the building will house both the traditional and open class concepts.

By Robert E. Finneran
 Editor

Andover's tax rate for fiscal 1976-'77 was officially set at $53 Wednesday -- an increase of $2 over the past year.

Assessor William H. Russell received confirmation of the new rate at the office of the state department of Corporation and Taxation in Boston Wednesday morning.

The official rate-setting followed a review of the assessor's figures and allocation of special education funds within the tax rate computation, considering the town's appropriation of these funds at town meeting.

State reimbursement for special education funds was somewhat in doubt as to use in the figuring of the tax rate,

Early Copy Requested

Due to the Labor Day holiday Monday, the TOWNSMAN office will be closed all day.

To facilitate production of the Sept. 9 issue, early news and advertising copy would be appreciated.

The TOWNSMAN office will be open Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 - noon to accept copy.

since the town had appropriated the funds at town meeting. Whether the money provided by the cherry sheet figures could be applied to the general funds and thus usable to reduce the tax rate impact, was clarified at the state house Wednesday morning by Russell.

The increase in the rate brings the annual levy back to where it was two years ago.

Tax rate reductions followed town meetings of 1974 and '75. The tax rate in 1972 was $50 and fluctuated slightly since that time.

Assisting in keeping the rate from rising higher this year was an unanticipated increase in new valuation for the town. The increased value of new properties which went on the rolls this year for the first time was substantially higher than initially contemplated during the preparation of the annual municipal budget earlier this year.

Schools Hum With Activity Awaiting The Return of 6000

By Linda S. Corbett

Andover schools were virtually ahum with activity this week, as administrators, teachers and custodians alike went about final preparations for the Big Day -- next Thursday.

More than 6000 pupils are expected to turn up at their respective schools at the appointed hour. High school pupils are to be in their homerooms by the final bell at 7:45 (home room assignments are printed in today's TOWNSMAN), while belltime at the junior highs is 7:35 a.m. and at the elementary schools, 8:30 a.m.

Sophomore orientation was initiated last year and worked so well that it has been extended to junior high school newcomers as well. In addition to ison at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the West Jr. High Auditorium, then regrouping at their respective buildings for the remainder of Tuesday and Wednesday.

Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert said this week that each year here sees a smoother school opening, and that good employee relations will make things even better this year. A year ago school opened with the teacher's contract unsigned, a situation that lingered through work slowdowns and threats of a strike until it was finally settled in the spring.

Traditional Classes

Perhaps the biggest change in routine this year is the initiation of the traditional school alternative.

A total of 180 pupils will be in the new program at West Elementary School, with one teacher in a self-contained

East and West Junior Highs and sophomores at the High School will already have gotten a jump on the upperclassmen, by attending Orientation Day Wednesday from 9 till about noon. They are to report to the regular bus stops at 8:15 a.m. (Bus schedules are also printed in today's paper.)

In some cases they'll also have a snack in the cafeteria; to learn the lunchtime ropes.

The teachers will also have had a head start, meeting in un-

Andover Edged In Race

Phil Dargie, race chairman, Joe Parolisi, Lawrence Recreation Department Director and John Bennett, awards chairman, were among those in charge of the 1976 Merrimack River Canoe Classic held last weekend.

The Merrimack River Canoe Race, co-sponsored by the Andover Bicentennial Committee and the Merrimack Valley Paddlers along with the Lawrence Recreation Department was held on Sunday. Six War Canoes competed for the "City of Lawrence" cup and 100 canoes and kayaks competed for trophies in 11 other categories of racing.

In the eight mile race, the "State of Maine" war canoe edged out the Beverly, and Andover, war canoes with a time of 1:02:18. The Andover canoe was captained by Dean Hart of Andover.

Congressman Paul Tsongas of the Fifth District presented the trophies to the winners of the Classic two man racing canoe class. This race was won by Duvall and Lomasney with a time of 1:06:10. Andover's team of Ted Sutton and Dave Dargie placed third in this race with a time of 1:07:08. Andover was well represented in the Kayak class with the first three places taken by John Bennett, Phil Dargie and Dave Patullo, in that order.

Town Clerk Named To Committee

Elden R. Salter, CMC, Andover Town Clerk, has been appointed to serve as a member of the Election Administration Committee of the International Institute of Municipal Clerks. Salter will study and advise on new developments, procedures and technological changes that are occurring in the election field and will assist in the dissemination of this information to election administrators throughout the country.

In announcing this key appointment to the IIMC organizational structure, IIMC President Joseph V. Valenti, CkMC, Municipal Clerk of Woodbridge, stated that, "Mr. Salter will be contributing his knowledge and experience in advising his fellow municipal clerks on significant developments that are taking place on the national level which will improve the efficient operation of the office of Municipal Clerk."

Salter has been Town Clerk of Andover since 1970 and has been a member of IIMC since that time. The International Institute of Municipal Clerks is a professional association of over 3,200 city, village, town, township, and borough clerks from the U.S., Canada and nine other countries. ## Bridge Repairs

Masoncraft Inc. of New-tonville has been awarded the contract for minor repairs on the Stevens and Central Street bridges. The $18,200 price tag also includes painting and new sidewalk grading.

Work is expected to begin within a week and neither of the two bridges is expected to be closed for the duration.

Capital Budgeting

A plan for capital budgeting presented to the Board of Selectmen last week by Intern Steven Ledoux was greeted with general favor. Chairman Milton Greenberg particularly applauded Town Manager J. Maynard Austin for assigning his staff to spend so much time on the project over the summer. The selectmen are now making suggestions to Assistant Town Manager Sheldon Cohen for revisions.

Capital items were defined in the report as those which cost more than $20,000 or have a life span of at least six years, such as improvements to the water/sewage system, fire trucks and additions to buildings.

Planning Board Chairman David Erickson said he was pleased to see the selectmen getting involved in such a plan. His board drew up a capital budgeting plan in 1973, but he said it really took the power of the selectmen to put something like that into effect.

Ledoux, who interned in Town Hall this summer, has returned to graduate school at Cornell University, where he's studying public administration.

Land Use Meetings

The Merrimack Valley Planning Commission next week is initiating a series of land use planning meetings throughout the region. The commission staff will present land use alternatives to help determine where local communities are headed.

Andover is the guest community Sept. 23 at the North Andover meeting in the Stevens Hall Nursing Home on Park Street. The session will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the public is invited.

Appointments, Reappointments

Sam Arcidy, transportation assistant for Andover Public Schools, has been reappointed office manager through Oct. 31, at an additional stipend of $667. The office manager slot was created last year in the absence of a business manager.

Irene Crane has also been reappointed instructional aide in the primary unit at South School by the school committee.

New appointments include Theresa McNally, Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert's secretary, as confidential secretary at a salary of $9993; Elizabeth Kiker, teacher aide at Bancroft and Donna Perowski, learning disabilities teacher-tutor.

Contracts have been mailed to Ann Bagg of Andover, to teach math at East Junior High at $10,085 a year; Dana Curcurux of Gloucester, adaptive physical education, $10375; David Nicols of Medford, adaptive phys ed, $11,202; and Gail McMeekin of Hingham and Phyllis Tsoronis of Cambridge, school adjustment counselors, $10,756.

Salary Placement

The Andover School Committee last week took steps toward a consistent policy for placing new employees on the salary schedule.

Experience considered must now be directly related to the position for which the individual is hired in Andover; credit for prior experience will be considered only up to the 10 prior consecutive calendar years; experience prior to a break in service of two or more consecutive years within the total 10 will not be counted; credit for one full year will be given for experience of more than 145 teaching days in a year of continuous service.

Red Cross Committee Sets Goal

When Hurricane Belle slammed into New England earlier this month the worst was expected. Most of the area was spared the wrath of the tropical storm although many parts suffered from heavy rains, high winds and flash flooding.

According to John Doran, chairman of disaster, Andover Red Cross specialists of the chapter maintained an early morning vigil, prepared to assist the community if needed and to man shelters whenever opened by Civil Defense.

Noting that the hurricane season extends into October and that others are likely to follow, Doran said, "I am hopeful that the Andover Chapter once again can count upon the generosity of the community to help meet out local goal of $1,170. The Red Cross is prepared to respond to disasters like Hurricane Belle and provide such services as food, shelter, and medical support if necessary. The ability to do so, however, is dependent upon contributions from the public. Mr. Doran asks that checks be made payable to: American Red Cross, earmarked for Disaster Relief, and mailed to: Andover Chapter, ARC, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover, Ma. 01810.

In Program

Wetting Down The Ruins

Firefighter Charles Murnane and Lt. Arthur Ness check over the smoldering ruins of a barn at 54 Abbot street following Monday night fire which levelled the structure. The department returned to the scene on Tuesday to wet down the hot spots which had reignited since the fire late Monday night.

Two Injured Battling Abbot Street Blaze

damaged in rear.

Two Andover firefighters were injured battling a fire which destroyed a barn in the rear of 54 Abbot street late Monday night.

Firefighters Frank Kolodgy and Scott Gorrie were treated at Lawrence General hospital for burns received in the blaze which levelled the large barn on the property of Mrs. Alfred Castle. Both were released following treatment.

The fire is not of suspicious origin, according to Acting Fire Chief William T. Downs, but the state fire marshal's office will examine the ruins to assist in determining a possible cause.

There was medium damage to another barn to the rear of the burned structure. The second barn is owned by Phillips Academy.

Firefighters were notified by a neighbor at 10:47 p.m. Monday. Firefighters were greeted by flames leaping high into the sky. Acting Deputy Chief Edward King ordered additional help and had Engine 1 from North Andover called to fill in at the Central station.

There were some materials stored in the barn including an old car. Actual loss was not listed.

The fire rekindled slightly on Tuesday, with firefighters returning to the scene to wet down the ruins.

Another Me$$age For Taxpayer$

On top of the thousands of dollars of senseless vandalism at the Bancroft and Shawsheen schools a week ago, Andover taxpayers will have to pay for the 20 windows smashed at West school this week. This particular shattered pane is of the expensive variety, being composed of wire and glass, thus some heavy missile needed to shatter it.

School Property Could Become Off-Limits

Public school property could well become off limits after school hours, in the wake of a continued wave of vandalism. Monday, West school personnel found over 22 windows and two doors smashed by huge stones and bricks when they reported to work.

The costly damage at West followed a window smashing escapade by vandals last week and malicious damage to the Bancroft school during the same period. Damage was set at $1,230.

Tuesday night Supt. of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert advised the school committee of the seriousness of the problem and was asked by the board to report back in a month with some recommendations on preventing such vandalism in the future.

Seifert said that the problem had reached the stage where serious consideration must be given to making school property inaccessible to the public after school hours.

Damage in just the past couple of weeks has amounted to the thousands of dollars.

The windows smashed over the weekend at West were of the heavy plate-wire variety and took some good power behind the large stones and bricks.

The superintendent expressed concern over the problem noting that even when vandals are apprehended, the prosecuting hardly fits the offense.

Often, offenders are let off with only slight, if any, punitive action.

It is possible that the town may consider posting of no trespassing signs on the school properties, in order to protect the town's investment in the million dollar structures.

Exhibit Continues

Stone Age New England: 10,000 Years of History, an exhibit portraying the occupation of New England by Indian populations from the earliest dated people through Colonial Times, has been extended through the summer of 1977 at the Peabody Museum, Salem.

The museum is open Monday through Saturday, 9 to 5; Sundays and holidays, 1 to 5.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

Andover citizens should watch with unusual interest the unfolding power play - a proposed Central street historic district. It is a proposal with sobering long range implications for Andover, and a limitless potential for mischief. During the Stalin purge years there grew up a Russian folk saying - "You Today, Me Tomorrow." Andover property owners should attend the September 16 hearing on this matter and learn what someone has in store for Central Street today but for some other street tomorrow.

GOP Group Plans For Campaign

At a recent well attended meeting of the Andover Republican Town Committee, plans were formed for the coming national and state elections.

A "Gay 90's Dance" will be held on Friday, Oct. 8 at the Sheraton-Rolling Green, where people attending will be able to meet and talk with the candidates. Paul Cronin, who was a delegate to the Republican Convention and floor worker for President Ford, reported on the convention which ended on a harmonious note and with a good team. The committee also came out strongly against the Graduated Income Tax, the flat rate electric pricing, and state takeover of electric utilities.

Efforts are being made to have either the President or Vice President at a fund raising in October at Andover to help in the election of Michael Robertson for the U.S. Senate and Roger Durkin to Congress.

The next Andover Republican Town Committee meeting will be Sept. 15th., the day after the primaries.

Local Men Report At Bowdoin

Three local men are among the 70 who reported Monday for varsity team practice at Bowdoin College.

Senior cornerback Bill Driscoll of North Andover is one of two returning starters in the defensive backfield, while offensive tackle Dave Sweetser of Andover, a senior, is also a returning starter. Sophomore Phil Pierce of North Andover, who won a varsity numeral in 1975, is a candidate for center.

Bowdoin will entertain Tufts in a Sept. 11 practice game and they'll scrimmage at Colby Sept. 18. They open their regular season with a home game against Trinity Sept. 25.

The Polar Bears are also switching to an eight-game schedule after playing seven games for the past decade. Trinity and Middlebury are new opponents, while Tufts will be missing from the schedule for a few years.

Cotton circles that calendar in the Lone Star State. By the time farmers on the West Texas Plains finish harvesting one year's crop, growers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley begin planting next year's crop. In a normal year, Texas-grown cotton makes up one-third of the total U.S. crop.

Special problems demand a special kind of leadership.

This region has different problems from the rest of the state. The textile industry has moved, and low tax rates in New Hampshire are luring more businesses, and shoppers, across the border.

An effective State Senator from this district has to do more than help constituents with their personal problems. Jim Shannon believes that the greatest service that a Senator can do for this district is to be a vigorous leader in the fight to improve the economy of this state and this region. That's the kind of Senator Jim Shannon intends to be.

18th Century Exhibit At Fine Arts

The American "masters" abroad in the late 18th century - Copley, Stuart, and West - emulated the grandeur of European painting, while at home, a simple, purely American artistic style was growing with the new nation.

"Paintings by New England Provincial Artists", a special Bicentennial exhibit at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, July 22 through October 17, will focus on this uniquely American painting that flowered after the Revolution.

Approximately 80 paintings have been selected to illuminate this relatively unstudied chapter of American painting. While these works reflect a culture that ranged from one of simplicity to an approximation of the English ideal, overall they project an intense pride in everything American.

Paintings by artists such as William Jennys, John Brewster, William Johnston, and John Trumbull convey an intensity of purpose and a remarkable observation in the rendering of the individual character of the sitters.

Clergymen, doctors, militarymen and their wives, people proud of their position, were eager to have their images preserved on canvas. Houses and town views, which often decorated over-mantels and fireboards, were painted with considerable attention to detail. These pictures provide us with an unusual and accurate document of 18th century America.

Although these painters generally lived outside major centers, they were important within their provincial spheres. Their geographic isolation did not inhibit the practice of their art but did effect their style. The combination of careful representation with an imperfect sense of perspective and proportion - an awkwardness and naivete of style - contributes to the charm of these paintings.

Appointed Dean At Museum

Jan Fontein, Acting Director of the Museum of Fine Arts, has announced the appointment of Bruce K. MacDonald to the position of Dean of the School of the Museum of Fine Arts. Dr. MacDonald succeeds William Bagnall who left the Museum School in July, 1975, to pursue his career in the creative arts.

Dr. MacDonald, whose appointment is effective Sept. 1, comes to the Museum of Fine Arts after serving as Director of the Office of Exhibitions at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At MIT his responsibilities included planning and installing exhibitions for the Hayden Gallery, preparing exhibition catalogues and educational materials, developing a volunteer program, coordinating fund-raising and development activities, and teaching. He is currently teaching Photography and American Popular Imagery, and a General Survey of American Art in the 20th Century at Harvard Summer School.

After graduating Phi Beta Kappa and cum laude from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., in 1961, Dr. MacDonald received his A.M. from Harvard University in 1967 and his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1973. His specialized training includes his participating in a one year program in the Department of Photography at the Museum of Modern Art, New York. During this program, he organized the exhibition "Photographs Before Surrealism," which toured for two years after opening in New York.

Dr. MacDonald, a resident of Cambridge, has served on the Visiting Committee of the School of the Museum of Fine Arts.

The materialistic attitude toward life seeks fulfillment by accumulation of wealth and ever-increasing consumption of goods in an environment of limited space and resources, Massachusetts Audubon notes.

John McKean. Not the machine.

Under the present County government, our 34 cities and towns in Essex County face an astronomical increase of 37% in the County tax assessment. That's $17.1 million of our money they're wasting. It's time to say, "No" to the machine and "Yes" to John McKean.

Grid Tryouts Scheduled

The six-team Andover Junior Football League is getting ready to kick off its 17th season of competition for boys ages 10 through 13.

Tryouts and registration for the AJFL will be held at the East Junior High Playstead Field on Monday through Thursday, September 13, 14, 15 and 16 from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. each day.

All prospective players must register and try out at one of these times in order to be assigned to a team.

A $15 fee should accompany the application, and such fee will be refunded if the boy is not selected.

The League is for boys who will have reached their 10th birthday by September 1, 1976, and who will not reach their 14th birthday by January 1, 1977.

The boys must not weigh more than 120 pounds on the day they officially register for play, unless they are 12 years or younger. A birth certificate will be required at the time of registration.

All eighth (8th) grade boys must first try out for their Junior High 7th and 8th grade teams, and must be released by the coach after tryouts before becoming eligible for the AJFL. They must then obtain a release slip from the Junior High coach and present it to the Junior League officials.

All coaches will be on hand at the tryouts, and the candidates will be grouped according to ability after the final session.

The team player draft will follow on the night of September 16, and boys selected for specific teams will be notified by the coaches.

The AJFL consists of 180 players, six teams of 30 boys each.

All teams will play a five game schedule, beginning Sunday, October 3 at 12 noon and running for five consecutive Sunday afternoons (10th, 17th, 24th and 31st).

All games are played at the Andover Playstead gridiron behind East Junior High.

Bill Doherty is returning to coach the Ballardvale Browns, while Kevin Winters is back at the helm of the defending champion Indian Ridge Vikings, and Frank Flanigan will again lead the Central Colts.

Moving up to head coaching posts are Steve Tisbert with the West Andover Giants, Norm Wallace with the Shawsheen Patriots, and Louise LoPresti with the Bancroft Dolphins.

Heading AJFL operations are president Bill Walsh, vice-president Mickey Sirois, vice-president Marty Soloman, secretary Dick Asoian and treasurer Bob Merola.

Advisors to the league are Andover High head grid mentor Dick Collins, who recently conducted a clinic for all AJFL coaches, and past League president Ed LaFleur.

Applications for the League can be obtained at The Sport Shop or Barcelos market, both on Main Street, Andover.

Andover School Bus Code

With the advent of another school year parents are urged to instruct their children on the contents of the Andover School Bus Code as adopted by the Andover School Committee.

Students who violate this code, violate the rights of other students on the bus and possible subject these students to undue safety hazards. Everyone shares equally in the responsibility of maintaining proper discipline and safety on the school buses. In order to establish proper standards of behavior and to provide a safe and enjoyable ride for every student transported, this bus code is published so that every parent may have an opportunity to contribute to this goal.

Here We Go Again

School hasn't even started yet, and the "Get Seifert" forces are at it again.

John G. Wragg, who once resigned his school committee seat in mid-term with an expressed wish for Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert's demise, last week took up his campaign once more.

In a public letter he accused Seifert of "de facto discrimination," of treating Catholic and traditional alternative school children as "second class citizens."

These are fairly serious charges and if, in fact there is discrimination, Wragg is duty-bound to substantiate them. We suggest, however, that he might have gone to the administration first, giving them a chance to respond before he ignited an emotional issue.

Wragg takes issue with the "shuttling" of parochial school pupils and youngsters in the new traditional alternative. These children walk to their nearest bus stops and ride to their neighborhood schools, where another bus takes them on to St. Augustine's or, in the traditional case, West Elementary School.

If a program draws on a few students from all over the town's 32 square miles, we find little alternative but a shuttle-type service. Additional buses would be required to pick up each of the 180 youngsters in the traditional program at their doorsteps, at an astronomical cost to the town.

Busing already costs the town more than $300,00 a year, and Andover is already extending itself by busing youngsters who live nearer to school than the law requires.

It seems unlikely that the taxpayers would care to increase the busing tab further by abolishing the shuttle service.

St. Augustine's pupils have been transported this way "for years," with no complaints of discrimination until Wragg's. In fact, many of those youngsters relish the opportunity to spend a little time with others their own age who go to public schools. Some view it as a step toward integration instead of the opposite.

Supt. Seifert admits to not being able to analyze one school bus route, suggesting that a superintendent has enough things to worry about without studying who gets off at what stop at what time. He has placed confidence in Transportation Assistant Sam Arcidy for working out the details and seeing that treatment of all children is similar, and as far as we're concerned, that confidence is well founded.

Finally, while it had a somewhat less than smooth beginning, we feel the traditional program is well underway after a great deal of administrative work and parental in-put, and a herculean effort by West Elementary Principal Eugene Frulla.

We hope that Wragg's get-Seifert-and-the-open-concept attitude won't open up old wounds and that the program can get off to a unified start without being derailed by one of the traditional cause's most ardent proponents.

Protecting Our Investment

As if the vandalism in Bancroft School last week wasn't enough, school officials woke up the next morning to 17 broken windows in Shawsheen School.

While school administrators tend not to publicize minor vandalism, just like the fire department likes to play down false alarms in order to avoid possible snow-balling, last week's events rendered that secretive approach no longer valid.

Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert shared the incidents, he said, because Andover residents tend to feel they're isolated, that the way things are in their own homes represents the community at large.

Not so. We have the same behaviors in Andover as anywhere else, he went on. What happens in the Big City can happen here, and is at an increasingly alarming rate.

Furthermore, the destruction or marring of public property is costing the taxpayers a bundle. Seifert said cleanups at Bancroft last week probably cost the system a couple of thousand dollars. They forced a delay in the custodial schedule of preparations for the beginning of school, and caused them to re-do some jobs that had already been completed. In addition, aides put in hourly time to sort out instructional materials that had been strewn about and maintenance men from the central office had to spend some of their valuable time making repairs.

There's also the hideous realization that the damage, while malicious enough, could have been even worse.

Finally, we ponder how long taxpayers are willing to sit still before they take action to protect the $22 million already invested in Andover school facilities. The replacement value of school property, needless to say, would be far, far greater.

Alarm systems at East Jr. High and West Elementary Schools are working beautifully. They were the beginning of a master plan drawn up to install alarms in all the schools, but progress was curtailed a couple of years ago by the school committee in an austerity move. Yes, the whole plan would cost a considerable $200,000, but the installations could be stretched over a period of years. One school at a time. Bancroft would most likely have been next, particularly because of its isolated, woodsy setting that allowed vandals last week to stay "a couple of hours" without being noticed.

The next question, of course, is whether taxpayers, after putting out nearly $200,000 for a new high school roof, are willing to dig into their pockets again.

There is also the viable, yet distasteful possibility of putting a reward on the vandals' heads, thus giving them local notoriety reserved for bank robbers and hijackers on a larger scale.

The most immediate solution and certainly the most costly is simply for the public to rally 'round its investment. Seifert calls on citizens not to accept increased vandalism with resolve, not to fall into a state of futility about the issue, but to report any suspicious activity they see around any of the schools to the police or school authorities.

And, while he says he may be chasing phantoms, he asks parents to know where their youngsters are when they go out at night.

We couldn't agree more.

Speaking Of Assets

We make our annual plea for the town's drivers to guard our most important one, the children.

Next Thursday some two thousand of them will come tripping down the sidewalks to their nearby schools, while another four thousand will gather at corners about town to wait for their buses.

We ask drivers to particularly keep a watchful eye at the intersections, and obey the speed laws more intently than ever.

The State Registrar of Motor Vehicles has also directed local police to crack down on violators of the bus stop law.

Drivers coming from either direction MUST stop for a school bus which is loading or unloading children, and which has its signal lights flashing. Traffic coming from the opposite direction on a divided highway is exempt, but when in doubt, stop anyway.

It's up to parents, meanwhile, to insure that their youngsters arrive at their bus stops in time, stay out of the streets while they're waiting, and are well behaved in transit.

Standex Sets New Records

Standex International Corporation (NYSE) has announced record sales, earnings and earnings per share for the fiscal year and 4th quarter periods ended June 30, 1976. The company has also forecast that fiscal 1977 "will be another record year, with a substantial increase in earnings", according to Daniel E. Hogan, chairman and chief executive of the diversified company based in Andover.

Fiscal 1976 ended "on a strong note", Hogan indicated, as sales and earnings in the 4th fiscal quarter reached record levels. Net income in the 4th quarter rose 154 percent to $1,930,000, or 63 cents per share, as compared with the prior year's net income of $759,000 or 28 cents per share. Sales in the latest period amounted to $49.4 million, up 22 percent from last year's $40.7 million.

In the full fiscal year ended June 30, net income amounted to just over $7 million, or $2.51 per share up 31 percent from last year's $5.4 million, or $1.96 per share. Sales for the latest year amounted to $189.2 million, up 8 percent from sales of $175.7 million in fiscal 1975.

In his announcement, Hogan stated that "we are very pleased with the manner in which Standex withstood the severe recession, and the speed with which the company responded to the economic improvement". Despite some "pockets of weakness" markets in which recessionary pressures have not yet abated, Standex is in the strongest position, both operationally and financially, in the history of the company", Hogan added.

Reflecting this strength and Standex's "excellent prospects", Mr. Hogan pointed to the fact that the company had increased its cash dividends in each of the last three consecutive quarters. Cash dividends currently amount to 18-3/4 cents per share per quarter, or an annual rate of 75 cents per share, up 34 percent from an annual rate of 56 cents per share at the start of the 1976 fiscal year.

While most major operating units contributed to the record results in fiscal 1976, the Consumer Products Group showed the greatest gains. Following two years of substantial losses, this Group made a significant turnaround to a modest profit in the year that just ended and that trend is accelerating, Hogan stated. Contributing factors were the resurgence of consumer buying, the successful conclusion of costly start-up operations at various Consumer Products divisions.

Standex's Industrial/Electronics Products Group turned in an outstanding performance, overall, despite sizable losses sustained by the unit producing steel joists for the depressed non-residential construction industry. Based on current trends in that industry, Hogan stated, that unit has "a good chance of approaching break-even this year".

The electronics operations, both in the U.S. and abroad, turned in "very impressive results". Particularly important, Hogan added, was the fact that after four years of research and development the Comtelco (U.K.) electronics division of England is now in full-scale commercial production and operating on a profitable basis. The division manufactures Reed switches for a wide variety of industries. Hogan stated that this new development represents "one of the most exciting areas of potential growth for Standex in the future".

Hogan also indicated that Standex had recently consummated the sale of its West Coast nameplate division for a price in excess of book value. The unit did not fit into Standex's growth plans, he added.

Standex is a diversified manufacturer operating in four basic growth areas: consumer products; institutional products; graphics and industrial products.

Yes, it does. Because the healing Principle taught and practiced by Christ Jesus can apply to anyone at any time. New proofs of its healing power occur every day. Healing in Christian Science means much more than physical release. It means a victory over fear. A clearer understanding of God, and of yourself.

You're invited to learn more at our Sunday service. The Bible Lesson you'll hear will explain more of how Christian Science heals.

Mrs. Decker Ordained A Deacon

Mrs. Carol Decker, of Norwalk, Conn., daughter of Mrs. Scott Paradise and the late
Mr. Paradise of Phillips
Academy, has been ordained a deacon in the United Methodist Church and is working toward becoming an elder, the highest level of Methodist ordination.

Mrs. Decker, who attended Andover schools and graduated from Abbot Academy, received both bachelor's and master's degrees in Spanish, and has completed three years of a four-year course at Yale Divinity School.

Of the opinion that lay ministry
"as in the days of the early Methodists is the key to revitalization of the churches today," she hopes to specialize in development of lay ministry through adult education. Parish ministry appeals to her particularly.

The wife of Dr. Frederick H.
Decker and mother of two children, she was a principal developer of Norwalk FISH and director of Community Action

Training, working also with the Norwalk Human Relations Commission, the United Church
Women, the Methodist District Council on Ministries, and as Mission Area Chairman for her church, the East Avenue United Methodist of Norwalk. This past year she has worked as associate at the Long Hill Methodist Church in Trumbull.

Mrs. Daniel Breen, left, and Mrs. John Murray, new staff members of the Learning Loving living School, review materials and books in preparation of the new school year.

New School Opens At West Church

The Learning Loving Living School will begin a playgroup this September at the West Parish Church. Directing the program will be Mrs. Daniel Breen, assisted by Mrs. John Murray. The school, which is an extension of the West Parish Church Christian Education Committee, will serve a number of two and one-half and three year-old children two mornings per week. Although the life of the school will reflect the Christian values and beliefs found in the church, the program is open to all. The L.L.L. School Committee is encouraging diversity by inviting additional applications from parents of minority or slightly handicapped children. According to the school's philosophy, each child will be considered a unique account. Each child's feelings will be recognized and responded to, as he learns to interact with peers, to wonder at nature, to create through arts and crafts, and to become more aware of his world.

Mrs. Breen, the director of the school, has had extensive experience with pre-school children. In addition to raising ten children of her own, she has taught nursery school at the Child Study Department of Greater Lawrence Regional Technical Vocational High School and has been affiliated with Family Kindergarten and Parents' Kindergarten for years. She is a graduate of Wellesley and lives in North Andover with her husband and children.

Helping Louise Breen will be Mary-Jo Murray, who taught pre-primary at Pike School, Andover, for six and one-half years. She has also taught christian education at many levels and has completed several courses in pre-school education. She has two married children and lives with her husband, John, in Andover.

At present, the Learning Loving Living School has a full enrollment excepting the two positions reserved for children from a minority group or with a slight handicap.

The school will be administered by a board representing the church and nursery school parents. Faith Johnson, Director of Christian Education at West Parish, will oversee the operation of the school. Along with Mrs. Johnson, the board includes John Carew, Palla Schreurs, and Roxann Nickerson. For information on registration for the two reserved positions contact Roxann Nickerson.

Newburyport Art Exhibits

The Newburyport Art Association, 65 Water St., Newburyport, will present an invitational exhibition Sept. 5-26 in the main floor gallery. The show is open to all artists who have won awards at N.A.A.

The student exhibition will be open at the same time upstairs, and will feature work by students of classes held at N.A.A.

Hours for both exhibits, which are open to the public, will be 1 to 5 daily.

Bilingual guides and accommodations for handicapped and elderly persons are available for tours of the State House, Beacon Hill. Call 727-3676 in advance.

Junior Girl Scouts To Register

Junior Girl Scout Troops 17 and 40 will register on Sunday evening, Sept. 12 at the Unitarian - Universalist Church, 244 Lowell St., Andover.

This new registration procedure has been planned to eliminate the usual shifting of girls between troops, to equalize troop enrollments, to enlist parental support, and to increase parent-leader communications. The time is 6:30-8 p.m. Each junior should be accompanied by a parent and should be prepared to pay national registration of $2. Cookies, punch and coffee will be served. Samples of Girl Scout publications "American Girl" and "Daisy" will be available and subscriptions may be ordered.

This year both troops will hold their meetings in the Sanborn Library. Troop 17 will meet on Mondays after school from 3 to 5 p.m. with Joyce Robinson as leader. An assistant is needed.

Troop 40 will meet Tuesday afternoons with Sue Williams as leader and Ciel Martin assistant and troop camping leader.

These leaders have met to plan some joint activities, including fall camping Oct. 16 and 17.

Sanborn Junior Troops are for girls in grades 4, 5 and 6. Girls in these grades are eligible even if they have not previously been registered Girl Scouts and even if they do not attend Sanborn School. Fly-ups from Brownie Troops 76, 41 and 483 as well as previous members of Troops 17 and 40 are being notified of this meeting. Because troop sizes are limited, however, girls are requested to attend and register on Sunday. If unable to attend, they may still insure registration by delivering registration fees before the meeting to any of the leaders. Those wishing to join after Sept. 12 will be taken on a stand-by basis. First meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 20, and Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Museum Offers Free Afternoons

Boston's Museum of Science announces a new policy of free admission Wednesday afternoons for adults and children accompanied by adults, beginning Sept. 8.

The policy applies from September through March, 2 p.m. to closing at 5 p.m., except on holidays and school vacations, and to children between 5 and 16. Children under five are always admitted without charge.

"Although the Museum's attendance is on the increase, with a 12 percent rise in August over last year," says Museum President William J. Speers, "we are aware that there are many members of the community who cannot afford to come here."

"We think that retired persons, students, and families will especially welcome the free afternoon."

The Museum already admits free upwards of 200,000 adults and children in organized groups. Speers explains the practice is made possible through the support of the state, private donors, foundations, and corporations.

"Now adults and families without organizational ties will be able to take advantage of the Museum," he says.

Continuing in effect are the reduced rates the Museum has been offering weekday afternoons from September through March for the past four years.

Only about one third of the Museum's operating budget is covered by admission fees. Part of the remainder comes from memberships and from the state sponsorship of the School Visits Program. The balance is obtained from bequests and gifts.

Kickoff Campaign will include a panel discussion of the E.R.A. and what it does or does not mean. Guest speakers will be Karen Lindsey, Boston Herald journalist and Roberta Benjamin of the Massachusetts Central E.R.A. Committee.

Two special interest courses designed with women in mind are Project Self and the Career Tools Workshop. Project Self is a series of six informal workshops to help women deal with their lives. The workshops will center on group communication, life planning, assertiveness training, changing relationships, women alone and sex stereotyping.

The Career Tools Workshop helps turn talents, interests and skills into satisfying careers. This is an information gathering, problem solving course, not a

Now's The Best Time To Start A New Lawn

From now until mid-September is the best time of the year to build a successful lawn according to specialists at the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute. The soil is warm and thus conducive to better germination than in the spring. With proper watering and soil warmth, conditions are optimum for growth of grass. A bonus for the grower is that there is less apt to be competition from weeds since at this time of season weed seeds are not as active.

Also, by getting the seeding done at this time there will be several months of growing weather before winter finally halts the growth of the grass. Add to this several months of growth the following spring before hot weather occurs and you have about six good months of weather conducive to good growth.

A spring-planted lawn has to go through adverse conditions right from the start - cold air, cold soil, germinating weeds, and possible drought at a time when the seedlings are very weak and shallow-rooted.

Kennel Club Show Sunday

The Merrimack Valley Kennel Club is holding its annual Fall All Breed AKC Sanctioned B-OB (Breed and Obedience) Match Sunday at the Hood Memorial School in Derry, N.H.

Our entry fees still remain the same: $1.50 and .75¢ for each additional entry of the same dog in both Breed and Obedience. Junior Showmanship is .25¢ and is donated at ring side to the Exhibitors' Educational Fund.

Entries will close at 11:30 sharp; all Obedience judging will begin at noon and all Breed judging will begin at 12:30. Rare and Miscellaneous Breeds will be judged at 11:30.

Junior Showmanship will begin at 11 with classes for novice junior and novice senior as well as open junior and open senior.

Curve Ball Featured At Museum

Luis Tiant, Ferguson Jenkins, and Rick Wise of the Red Sox are featured in a refurbished Curve Ball exhibit at Boston's Museum of Science.

Displayed during the past two baseball seasons, the reopened display includes a recording by Tiant, explaining in Spanish how he throws a curve ball; one by Wise giving his explanation in English; and a video tape showing Ferguson Jenkins's pitch in slow motion. The color video was produced by Channel 38 (WSBK-TV).

Another part of the walk-around exhibit explores the aerodynamic principles of the baseball phenomenon.

"The ball curves because of the pressure difference created as the ball spins through the air," the exhibit states, suggesting that visitors activate a wind tunnel to duplicate the effect of the ball's movement.

Harold E. Edgerton, professor emeritus of M.I.T., whose stroboscopic photo of Lee Stange throwing a curve is part of the exhibit, and Ascher Shapiro, head of M.I.T.'s Mechanical Engineering Department, were consultants.

The exhibit, which will remain through the World Series, is on the basement level of the west wing.

Joe Sewell (AL) had the fewest strikeouts in a lifetime, with only 114.

Farming Decline

Farming is facing a continuing decline in employment needs; factors resulting in past declines - including rapid mechanization and improved fertilizers - are expected to continue, and the U.S. Department of Labor estimates the 1985 farm work force will be 45 percent lower than in 1972.

Schools

classroom for each grade level, K through 6.

The classrooms may not look a lot different than the ones the pupils came from, Principal Eugene Frulla says, except that they are self-contained. They each have four walls, 25 to 30 desks, and supply cabinets and other materials necessary to make them as self-sufficient as possible.

Youngsters coming into the program, Frulla says, will probably note a closer teacher relationship than they've known in the past, increased emphasis on curriculum, and more homework. They will have tighter time schedules than they may have had before, he says, with given expectations of work to be achieved within a given period of time.

They can also expect to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen, he says, with the teacher serving as more of an authority figure.

The traditional pupils, as a class, will still be taking part in non-academic activities they may have been accustomed to, such as band, phys ed and art.

They will have an opportunity to interact with other youngsters in their same grade levels at lunch, recess, and during special activities such as assemblies.

Frulla says the parents of traditional classroom youngsters have been kept informed, and a meeting with the Parental Advisory Committee was held as recently as Tuesday. All the parents know where the youngsters are to report next Thursday.

While Frulla says displacement of other pupils by the traditional program has been "minor," he says the special needs program has been decentralized as a result. One special class was moved to South School and another to Bancroft, whereas there were formerly six at West.

However, Frulla says, the decentralization may in fact strengthen the special needs program by speeding its youngsters' adjustment into the mainstream. They will have more opportunity to integrate with the rest of the schools than they did when special needs classes were all together, he says.

Curriculum Improvements

Curriculum emphasis, Associate Superintendent Harry Westcott said this week is "back to basics," and he added that the staff is "bending all efforts in that direction."

One improvement, he said, is in the area grammar and spelling in the elementary schools. Those programs have been reworked over the summer, he said, to place more emphasis on exercises and learning materials. Reading specialists are being indoctrinated by

Tax Rate

as well as federal revenue sharing funds being higher than anticipated also contributed to tempering the effect of rising costs and the need for increased services in the town general and school budgets.

Having a counter effect on the tax rate was the effect of county government on local taxpayers. Increases in this area caused an upward alteration in the tax rate figures for Andover.

County costs are also expected to increase in the coming year due to an already larger budget approved by the legislature, plus a supplemental budget expected to be submitted later this year.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported Wednesday that he was pleased with the tax rate, noting that the nominal increase was much lower than originally anticipated, due to the state and federal funds provided the town, along with the action of town meeting which approved a budget providing only needed services and meeting the effects of increasing costs in all areas of government.

Strawberries A Colonial Heritage

Strawberries were one of the true glories of colonial America. Roger Williams, founder of Providence in 1636, wrote that the strawberry was "the wonder of all the Fruits growing naturally in these parts. The Indians bruise them in a Mortar, and Mix them with meale and make strawberry bread." Strawberry shortcake was thus invented by the colonists.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

JFK's Death Castro Plot, Said Roselli

by Jack Anderson
with Joe Spear

WASHINGTON -- On July 28, Mafia mobster John Roselli set out for the golf course. He never made it. His associates notified us that he had vanished.

Five years ago, we investigated Roselli's role in the CIA plot to assassinate Cuban premier Fidel Castro. Roselli found that we protected our sources. He came to trust us. We were the only newsmen he would talk to. That's why his associates called us about his disappearance.

We broke the story here on ABC that Roselli was missing. A few days later, his body was found, stuffed into an oil drum, near north Miami Beach.

Three Miami detectives recently flew to Washington looking for clues that might lead to Roselli's killers. They got the runaround. The FBI gave them no help. The Senate Intelligence Committee refused to let them see Roselli's latest testimony. It is stamped "Top Secret."

We can report what he said. Roselli testified that he believed Fidel Castro was responsible for John F. Kennedy's assassination. It was his first reaction, Roselli said, upon learning that Kennedy had been killed.

Roselli believed that Castro had retaliated for the attempts upon his own life. But Roselli insisted that he had no evidence, that he was merely giving his own opinion. He was so guarded in his testimony that Sens. Howard Baker and Richard Schweiker accused him of holding back information.

The senators now fear that Roselli's murder may have been linked to the Castro caper.

We have learned that Roselli was not the retired, inactive mobster he pretended to be. He was deeply involved in financial swindles in southern Florida.

He had also antagonized some powerful mobsters by talking too much to the government. It looks as if his killing was a gangland execution.

The Central Intelligence Agency, meanwhile, has given up its efforts to assassinate Fidel Castro. The last attempt was made in 1963. Yet the plotting against Castro is still going on.

As late as last May, a group of Cubans in Miami conspired to kill Castro while he was visiting Mexico City. Intelligence sources say the plotters belonged to a terrorist group called the "Pragmatistas." But they have no connection with the CIA.

KIM'S COMEUPPANCE: Kim Il Sung, the North Korean leader, has apologized for the murder of two American officers. They were beaten to death by axe-wielding North Korean guards. Kim said the slaying was "regretful."

It wasn't much of an apology, and the United States rejected it. But it was the first apology Kim has ever made to the United States.

What caused him to back down? Here's the inside story: Communist China sits heavily on North Korea's northern border. Kim can't make a move, therefore, without consulting Peking.

Late last week, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met with Huang Chen, who heads the Chinese Communist mission in Washington. Kissinger asked the Chinese to use their influence to cool the crisis.

Apparently, Kim received the word from Peking. He immediately sent a personal message to the United Nations commander, backing down.

VIEW FROM SAN CLEMENTE: Former president Richard Nixon is worried that President Ford may jeopardize his accomplishments in China. Nixon recently emphasized this to at least two close friends. He said old Mao Tse-Tung, the founder of Communist China, is dying. It is a crucial time, therefore, for Chinese-American relations.

Yet as Nixon sees it, Ford is neglecting China and favoring Russia. Nixon believes this is an historic mistake. He thinks the United States should tilt toward China.

The former president is also critical of Ford's diplomatic efforts in the Middle East. Recent events have given the United States an opportunity, he said, to strengthen its ties with the moderate Arab countries.

This will take skillful personal diplomacy, in Nixon's opinion. It will also mean adopting a more balanced Middle East policy, less favorable to Israel. But the end result, Nixon contended, would be better for Israel.

GUARDING THE WIVES: Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter has obtained Secret Service protection for his wife and the wife of his running mate, Mrs. Walter Mondale.

The confidential request was submitted to Treasury Secretary William Simon. His chief counsel ruled that he had no legal authority to assign bodyguards to candidates' wives. But Simon said he didn't want to take a chance on the lives of the two women. Therefore, he asked President Ford to sign a special authorization.

BALKING BROOKE: The nation's leading black Republican, Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, feels he may have been used by his own party. He was asked to submit his financial records to President Ford, as one of a dozen vice presidential prospects.

Brooke refused, not because of what the records showed but because he didn't believe Ford considered him a serious candidate. "They've banded my name around for two years," he told us. "I told them to come back for the financial records when they were serious."

Americans Turning Deaf Ear To Music

"Americans are in danger of turning a 'deaf ear' to music." So says Professor Roland Nadeau, well-known musician and chairman of the Music Department at Northeastern University.

Many Americans have failed to gain...or have lost entirely...the gifts of beauty and spiritual revelation offered by fine music, according to Nadeau, and have, instead, become insensitive and unfeeling in a society which has become increasingly callous and violent.

"Americans are deluged with a constant, thundering barrage of sound...from blaring rock to Muzak in the subway, and it has taken its toll," says Nadeau.

At worst, according to some psychological studies, continued exposure to loud rock music may be physically damaging to the listener's eardrums. At best, people have lost their sensitivity to what they hear and can appreciate musically by constant exposure to a diet of popular music which is dictated primarily by only four or five major music companies.

"These companies decide in advance what will be popular," says Nadeau. "Then it is spoon-fed to the public via the media with no alternative."

"Music does not touch and transform the lives of great masses of our people, according to Nadeau.

"This is a loss, because no nation will grow to world responsibility and cultural maturity without full consciousness and experience of the fine arts," says Nadeau.

Professor Nadeau claims that America lacks a cultural tradition and, he says, "along with this cultural immaturity, the prevailing economic reality...that of competitive enterprise...inherently opposes state subsidy of any activity that is not immediately productive in the material sense."

"In other words," he says, "music, representing intangible qualities, is at the end of the bread line. The arts are viewed by the state as well as by the mass of its citizens simply as a mode of private enterprise, and, as such, left to their own devices."

Unless steps are taken to correct this situation, Nadeau says, and unless the public is educated to the inherent fulfilling powers of music and the other fine arts for each individual, life increasingly may become worth less.

Principal Engineer Named For Treatment Plant

Appointment of the Principal Sanitary Engineer to run the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District plant in North Andover this past week moves the regional project closer to operation.

The Sanitary District Commission, at its recent meeting, appointed James M. Brown, 153 Lyons Road, Scarsdale, N.Y., to the $26,000 per year post for the plant which will treat municipal wastewater from the towns of Andover, North Andover, Methuen and the city of Lawrence.

Brown will be in charge of plant operation and will commence his duties Oct. 1, to oversee the final phases of the project.

Brown has been in the field of wastewater treatment for the past 30 years, having served as supervisor of plants during the startup stage, similar to what is taking place at the new regional plant.

For the past few years he has been in the consulting engineering field with responsibilities for supervision of initial operations and facilities and operation and maintenance of wastewater plants.

He was superintendent of the wastewater plant in Bridgeport, Conn. and Westchester, N.Y. and from 1946 to 1955, he was employed by Lederle Laboratories in New York where he supervised the operation of an industrial waste treatment plant and the investigation of industrial wastewater problems at that plant.

From 1943 through 1946, he served in the U.S. Army and was in charge of the operation of a sewage treatment plant at the Columbia Army Base, Columbia, South Carolina.

Still to be appointed by the board are a process control engineer and a senior mechanical engineer.

The $59 million project, built with federal and state funding, along with local money, is scheduled to begin operation by January 1, 1977.

The plant will treat wastewater from the towns within the region before placing it into the Merrimack River.

Roast the seeds of squash and pumpkin for an enjoyable nibble.

Schools

Reading Supervisor Theresa Murphy this week, he said, then they in turn will teach the teachers in workshop sessions.

In the elementary science program, the ordering of all SCIS materials has been consolidated at the main office, and there will be a basic minimum of study units throughout the system. Youngsters in the same grade level will be doing parallel things in all schools.

Two people have been added this year for adaptive physical education, Westcott said, adding that certainly not all youngsters need the program. However, he said, out of 3,000 elementary pupils, 100 or so can't hop, skip and jump or have problems with obesity and non-coordination and the like. This brings the total of special personnel in that department to four.

Formerly, elementary pupils who finished all nine levels of IMS (Individualized Math System) had no place to go but to "tread water" laterally.

This year a Post IMS program of 10 units of special math topics such as statistics, measurement (surveying), number systems, counting methods and the like, has been added. These programs are not sequenced and can be picked up at will by the youngsters.

Secondary Changes

An IMS II program is being initiated in the junior highs, meanwhile, to include reviews, diagnosis, and then IMS levels 10 through 12. Once a pupils successfully completes those he will move on into algebra.

Westcott called IMS II "a natural following," and added that the CAP math program (Continuous Advancement Placement) has been dropped in the junior highs.

The interdisciplinary team teaching concept will be continued in the seventh and eighth grades, and Westcott said team workshops have been held over the summer.

A career education program which piloted at East Jr. High last year, is being expanded to West Jr. High as well.

In the foreign language area, pupils will no longer spend a quarter in French and a quarter in Spanish before choosing one or the other for the final half of the year. Westcott said they will be required to choose one from the very beginning.

On the secondary level, a new evening program is being offered to pupils at the high school who otherwise might not be able to attend regular daytime classes and get a diploma.

Unique in at least the northeastern part of the state, the program will allow youths to enroll in vocational courses at the VoTech, then Andover High at night.

It offers the best of both worlds, Westcott said. The pupils could get a full diploma for academics, but also the skills necessary for a trade.

Regular matriculation in a high school is required for a diploma.

Stricter Discipline

In a letter to high school parents, Principal Philip F. Wormwood likens the school year to a "journey," and suggests that parents, students and teachers can all "go further working together than apart."

He notes the increased emphasis on basics, on discipline and on attendance, and asks that parents examine the regulations "upon a basis of reasonableness."

One of the changes this year is the limiting of parking to seniors and students on work-study programs. Those eligible will be given stickers by the main office.

A new faculty-student discipline committee has also been set up to meet with pupils on a variety of offenses such as failing to identify oneself, giving a false name or information, vandalism or destructive behavior, failure to be enrolled in four classes and phys ed or an appropriate core program within two weeks after the beginning of a term, and offensive behavior toward other students or teachers such as abusive language, gestures or threats, and stealing.

Wormwood said he intends to hold a number of evening meetings for parents during the school year, and asks parents themselves to submit topics they would like to see included on the agendas.

Westcott said the population crunch is still on in the schools, particularly at the secondary level. Just how serious it will be, he said, remains to be seen until the youngsters show up for classes.

The system closed last June with 6361 pupils.
